Training

CDERP College is a natural extension of the research and employment support that CDERP has been undertaking and delivering for over a decade informally and formally since 2014.

Our training is evidence-based, practice informed, and developed to meet the needs of the evolving disability employment paradigm.

Modern effective disability employment systems demand up-to-date knowledge and skills to ensure that you meet the needs of clients who are undertaking a journey of discovery to personally meaningful employment and careers.

Our focus for decades has been on evolving the evidence for Customised Employment and improving practice methods.

Customised Employment is recognised as one of the leading employment practices for people with a disability and for that matter anyone with barriers to employment.

We have developed a series of micro-credentials and short courses to meet the needs of practitioners and families alike.

Our micro-credentials break down the employment process into four discrete stages.

- MCCE1. Foundations of Customised Employment & Discovery Stage 1 ©
- MCCE2. Understanding the Person and their Career, Discovery Stage 2 ©
- MCCE3: Job Development, Engaging Employers & Career Support ©
- MCCE4. Support Funding, Activating Families & Self-Employment ©

These can be taken individually, but be advised that they build on each other.

We have a range of training programs specific to disability employment and can create bespoke programs for service providers.

We have more programs coming on stream, so make sure you check back.
